Feb. 25 — George Washington observes, "With us here, things wear a disagreeable aspect and the minds of men are exceedingly disturbed at the measures of the British government."

Next, the Baltimore County Liquor Board ordered a male go-go dancer to cover his chest. And, finally, Boston has complied with anti-discrimination advice by hiring a man as an attendant for the women's bathroom at a public swimming pool.

May seek death for stabbings

Larry A. Whitford, 18, of 2806 Emzue Ave., was indicted by a Madison County grand jury Thursday afternoon on two counts of murder in connection with the alleged stabbing of two young women on Chouteau Island Feb. 11.

The grand jury also gave a grant of immunity from prosecution to Whitford's father and mother, Gordon and Evon Whitford.

The possibility of a death sentence being sought has arisen in speculation, and State's Attorney Nicholas Byron said, "I can't comment on that but I would refer you to the law."

State law effective last July 1 permits capital punishment for multiple killings or killings committed during another serious crime, as well as contract murders and the slaying of a policeman, firefighter, corrections officer or prison guard performing official duties.

Mrs. Donna Rials Bartels, 21, and Miss Pam Brooks, 18, were believed murdered on Chouteau Island and their bodies thrown into the Mississippi River. Mrs. Bartels' body was recovered from the river Feb. 12 with multiple stab wounds. A search for Miss Brooks' body was discontinued Feb. 16.

The grand jury indictment against Larry Whitford listed two counts of murder, one for the alleged murder of Mrs. Bartels and the other for the alleged murder of Miss Brooks.

The grant of immunity ordered "that Gordon Whitford and Evon Whitford be released from all liability to be prosecuted or punished on account of any testimony or other evidence they may be required to produce before the grand jury."

The document "shall forever be a bar to prosecution against the said Gordon Whitford and Evon Whitford for any offense shown in whole or in part by

Man tied, struck, robbed today

Four robbers, who claimed at first to be Federal Bureau of Investigation officers, broke down the side door at the home of Dean Little on Highway 162 between East 23rd Street and the railroad tracks, tied up Little, struck him, ransacked his house and took items valued at more than $10,000 at 4:30 a.m. today, Little reported.

The victim told Granite City officers and Madison County sheriff's deputies he was in bed when the door was broken open and four men entered, yelling,

May name SIUE structure after GC woman, 88

A Granite City woman living in relative obscurity today at 88 years of age led anything but an uneventful life.

She was a pioneering teacher for mentally and physically retarded children, principal of an eight-room school and city park superintendent. She taught night classes for immigrants studying to become naturalized citizens, and began a second career at the age of 70 as an antique dealer.

Miss Margaret Mulberry is believed to be one of the first, if not the first, educators to begin a study of and devise a plan for work with mentally retarded children.

Her name has been submitted to the Building Naming Committee to possibly name one of the new classroom buildings being built at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Mrs. Josephine M. Beatty, secretary in the School of Social Sciences, discovered Miss Mulberry when an American studies class required an interview with a senior citizen.

Milonski heads United Way; Fox drive leader

Officers were elected and the next campaign chairman was announced at the annual meeting of the contributors to the Tri-Cities Area United Way, held Thursday afternoon at the YMCA.

New president is Mitchell B. Milonski, works manager of the Granite City plant of the American Steel Foundries. He succeeds Paul H. Kelly, A. O. Smith Corp. plant manager, who was honored for "outstanding service and dedication" to this community.

Milonski announced that David V. Fox will serve as leader of the annual fund drive in October 1975.

Vice-president of marketing of the First Granite City National Bank, Fox is a retired Army lieutenant colonel who served as deputy commander of the Granite City Army Depot in the 1960s.

Other officers elected by the United Way members for the 1975-76 year beginning now were: William F. Winter, first vice-president; Bill H. Terrell, second vice-president; Irvin C. Slate Jr., secretary; and James W. Foley, treasurer.

Winter is editor of the Press-Record and Terrell is area manager of the Franklin Life Insurance Co. They succeed Milonski and Leo Schermer as vice-presidents.

The secretary and treasurer were re-elected Thursday. Slate is an attorney with the Lueders, Robertson and Konzen law firm and Foley is auditor of the First National Bank in Madison.

S. T. Nasir is executive director of the local United Way.

Kelly described the past year as "a successful one for our United Way organization."

Vehicle tax to increase?

A tentative ordinance draft that proposes an increase of $2 in the cost of motor vehicle tax stickers has been distributed to the 14 aldermen of the Granite City Council for study. It was learned by the Press-Record last week.

The ordinance, if enacted, would increase the "wheel tax" tags to $5 for passenger cars from the present $3 fee, and would raise the tax for motorcycles or motor bikes from the present $2 to $4.

The bill does not overlook the tax for "horse-drawn" vehicles which is fixed in the present ordinance at $4, but is increased in the proposed new ordinance to $6.

The $2 increase also applies to all six categories of trucks for which the tax tags are issued, the price depending upon the weight of the trucks. The tax for one-ton trucks is proposed at $10, up from $8, and the tags for trucks of one to two tons would increase to $12 from $10.

Other truck tax costs in the new ordinance are $14 for trucks of two to three tons, up from $12; $16 for trucks of three to four tons, up from $14; $18 for trucks of four to five tons, up from $16, and $27 for trucks of five tons or more, up from $25.

The revised ordinance was drafted by the City Council's Finance committee after Alderman Sam Whitmer requested a month ago that some provision be made in the city's vehicle tax law to set a reasonable fee for replacement of licenses for motorists who purchase different cars after the wheel tax decal has been affixed to the windshield of the car which is sold or traded.

An exchange of words between Alderman Walter Nomm of the Fifth Ward and Alderman Ronald Coleman of the Sixth Ward over the timetable for council action on the bill marked last week's council session charged that the ordinance was being delayed for presentation to the council "until after the election" and

Rapist poses as an officer

Madison County authorities are seeking a man who allegedly posed as a policeman Saturday to gain entry to the apartment of a young Pontoon Road housewife and then threatened to kill her two-year-old son before raping her.

The 19-year-old woman related that her son answered a knock at the door at about 1 p.m. Saturday and admitted a man dressed in a blue policeman's uniform.

Their apartment is in the 3000 block of Pontoon Road.

She said the man displayed a gun upon entering the apartment and forced her and her son into a bedroom. There he placed the weapon to the youngsters' head and said, "If you don't remove your clothing, I'll kill him."

After the woman submitted to his demands the intruder locked both into a bathroom and departed. Her son was not injured.

Authorities describe the rapist as being about 25 years of age, 5'10" to 6'4" in height and weighing about 180 pounds. He should be considered as dangerous, police were told as they began efforts to locate him.

A Madison County spokesman noted that the man's uniform included a pistol and holster, plus an ammunition belt and handcuffs.

He warned that all residents should request proper identification from any person who comes to a home saying he is a policeman or security guard.

CHURCH BREAK-IN
A burglary Friday at Second Baptist Church, 2100 Illinois Ave., resulted in a kitchen being ransacked. It was reported at 8:24 a.m. Saturday. It was not determined if anything was taken. Entry was gained by breaking a window.

$597 THEFT FROM AUTO
A citizens' band radio and an amplifier, together worth about $597, were stolen from the auto of Richard Niehaus, 1115 McCambridge Ave., it was reported at 10:20 p.m. Sunday. The right wing window was forced to gain entry.

Mammoth hardware store to open here

A new Central Hardware store will open at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in the Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center on Nameki Road just south of Pontoon Road.

The new "super hardware store," as store officials describe it, will be the 21st in the Central chain and will feature the largest sales area of any store in the chain.

The sales area also is the largest of any hardware store in a five-state area, officials said. Of the more than 70,000 square feet in the building, over 60,000 square feet will be used for displays and sales. The new store also will feature the largest lumber and building materials departments of any Central store.

The store employs about 125 persons, of which about 90 percent are from the Quad-City area, according to Stanley Cohen, president of Central Hardware Co.

Central Hardware is a subsidiary of Interco, Inc., which also owns International Shoe and Florsheim shoe companies, P. N. Hirsch & Co., Central Lin-

DeMolays plan month's events

Dave Epping, master councilor of the James Stuart Chapter, Order of DeMolays, reported during a meeting that 1,058 persons were served at the chapter's annual chili supper and luncheon, held last week at the Masonic Temple.
Appreciation was extended to Mrs. Mary Church, president of the Mothers Club, her committee and all Masonic volunteers who assisted with the fund-raising project.
It also was announced that International DeMolay Week will be observed March 16 to the 23. The local chapter will initiate new members on March 18, the date on which the organization was founded in 1919.
Petitions for the class are to be presented at the March 4 meeting, Epping reported.
During the week a party will be given by the DeMolays for the children at Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children in St. Louis. The members will attend church in a group on March 23 and attend a St. Louis basketball game on March 16.

Discipline problems aired

A delegation of four Madison Junior High School parents complained to the Madison School Board Thursday night that discipline at the school is lax.
One parent complained that a shop teacher at the junior high frequently left the room, and when he did students stick pins in other students.

Vehicle tax

told the council that "if you have an ordinance like this ready you should bring it up now."
Coleman replied that there is no intent to delay the ordinance. It was given to council members to study to determine if this is what we all want.
City Attorney George Pilcuff told the council that "this (copy sent to the aldermen) is only a rough draft. It is not final."
Nann, however, said that he had overheard Gerald Par-mley, chairman of the Finance committee, tell Coleman at the council table that the ordinance was not to be brought up until after the election. Coleman replied this was not true.
"I don't like it that this discussion occurs when Par-mley is in the hospital and is not here to defend himself," Whitmer told the council.
"When I asked for something in the ordinance for replacing tax tags I didn't ask for any raises in the fees or anything else. All I asked for was that something be done so that people who need to replace their tax stickers can get one for a reasonable cost."
Under the current ordinance, a motorist may replace a wheel tax sticker for 50 cents in the event the windshield is broken or the car wrecked and a piece of the old sticker is presented to the city clerk. But a person who trades or sells his car bearing a sticker for the current year must pay the full fee for a second sticker.
The proposed new ordinance fixes a fee of $2.50 for replacement of a tax sticker for any reason.
In addition, the new bill retains the provision under which senior citizens may obtain a wheel tax tag for a passenger car for $1, but limits the number of such tags to one per family.
The present ordinance contains the $1 fee for senior citizens, but establishes no limit. City Clerk Robert Stevens said this resulted in a number of purchases during the past year of tax tags for more than one car in one family.

Other complaints were made against a student teacher who allegedly played a record containing vulgar language in class, allowed students to shoot spitballs at one another, threw a book at one student and reportedly made anti-white statements in class.
Another parent said she feels her son who is small in stature, is continually "picked on"
because of his size, and accused the principal at the junior high of refusing to talk to her or take positive steps to correct the problem.
President Chester
McManaway told the parents the board will conduct an investigation of the reported incidents.

John Palchick, superintendent of schools, and Wade James, assistant superintendent, were authorized by the board to begin negotiations with the Federation of Teachers Local 763 in an effort to agree on a 1975-76 contract.
Plans to enlarge the board office with the addition of a 40-foot by 40-foot room were discussed. The new room would allow more citizens and parents to attend meetings without being forced to sit in adjoining rooms due to cramped quarters
now occupied by the board.
Superintendent Palchick was instructed to contact the family of the late Wenzel L. Brown.

Airport on state engineer agenda

With President Ford's action in releasing highway funds as a background, highway engineers from throughout the state will go to the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign tomorrow and Wednesday for the 61st annual Transportation and Highway Engineering Conference.
Sessions will be held in the Illini Union starting with registration at 8:30 a.m.
Tuesday.
Key reports on Illinois highway status and future will be given by John D. Kramer, Illinois Department of Transportation, Springfield, and by Jay W. Miller, Division
Engineer, Federal Highway Administration. Kramer's report is scheduled for 9:30 a.m.
Wednesday and Miller's presentation at the conference luncheon that day.
Other issues in the newsplanning and development for a

St. Louis metropolitan area airport, public collective bargaining in Illinois and the revenue crisis in highway construction—also will be stressed.
The controversy over the proposed new St. Louis area airport will be interpreted by Arven H. Sanders, executive director, St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport, at 11:15 a.m. Tuesday and the public employee bargaining report and outlook by Prof. Milton Derbert, U. of I. Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations, at 11:50 a.m. Tuesday.

A panel on the revenue crisis at 2 p.m. Wednesday will include Herb Klynster, director of local government, Illinois Agricultural Association;
former Rep. Robert Blair, chairman, Illinois Transportation Study Committee; Maurice Scott, executive director, Illinois Taxpayers Federation; and representatives of the state's highway engineers and construction industry.
General sessions on the two mornings will be supplemented by afternoon subject group meetings Tuesday on resistance, transportation construction, statewide transportation planning and multi-phase of roadside development, and by agency group meetings
Wednesday on state highways, county-township-road district highways, the revenue crisis

Cut power cost

Despite a 300 per cent increase in lighting intensity on walkways in the mall area of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, SIUE will save an estimated $3,200 a year on its electric utility costs.
Footcandle power was increased from 25 footcandles to one footcandle in mall fixtures
as part of a $24,000 campus lighting improvement program.
C. N. Moorheghe, assistant vice president for plant operations, said 110 fixtures had been changed from 250-watt units to 175-watt units. Even though the units use fewer watts of electricity, illumination was boosted by changing the style of ball in the lighting fixtures.

TRASH DUMPING CRACKDOWN! Venice police are arresting and charging with littering persons caught dumping trash anywhere along the riverfront. Venice police took this picture last week after making such an arrest. According to police, increased patrols are checking Garner and Slough roads and the riverfront park area behind the levee.

Venice police making arrests for littering

Venice police have increased patrols and are arresting anyone caught dumping trash anywhere in the Kerr Island area, according to Raymond Mikolaszuk, assistant chief of police in Venice.

Mikolaszuk noted that several persons have been dumping trash along Garner and Slough roads and in the riverfront park area behind the levee.

Seek duty-free zone

The metropolitan area last week intensified its efforts to establish a foreign trade zone.

The St. Louis City Board of Public Service, which is working in cooperation with the Economic Development Division of the Community Development Agency (CDA) and the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association (RCGA), announced that it is taking bids on proposals from individuals or organizations to provide and operate a foreign trade zone facility.

Projects to aid science teaching

Grants for two projects designed to help area science teachers update their instructional skills have been awarded to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville by the National Science Foundation.

Lionel Walford, chairman of the SIUE physics department, said a $30,000 award has been received for a project titled "Leadership Specialist Program - Curriculum Directors," and a $17,997 grant will support a second year of the project, "Roxana and Wood River-Hartford Science Curriculum Improvement Study (SCIS) Implementation Program."

UMSL campuses, depending on participation.

Walford said follow-up meetings will be arranged for those school districts that eventually decide to adopt any new curricula, to assist in the development of plans and eventual implementation.

The instructional staff for the project will include Fred Zurheide, associate professor of physics at SIUE, and Doris Trojak, chairman of the childhood education department at UMSL.

Walford also announced that state funding has been received for a four-week summer workshop for secondary teachers titled "Teaching of the Energy Crisis." Steven Sanders, associate professor of physics, will direct the workshop.

The leadership specialist program is a joint project with the University of Missouri at St. Louis, but the program will be centered on the SIUE campus.

Purpose of the project is to enable science department heads, curriculum directors, principals and other administrators to become aware of the scope and philosophy of recently developed science curricula, such as SCIS, Elementary Science Study, Science-A Process Approach, Unified Science and Mathematics for Elementary Schools, Introductory Physical Science, and Intermediate Science Curriculum Study - Probing the Natural World.

The second year of the SCIS program will include a summer workshop for fourth, fifth and sixth grade teachers. Last year's workshop provided training for 23 elementary science teachers in the first four grades (kindergarten through third). The instructional staff this year will include George Henderson, associate professor of physics, and Bob Williams, elementary science education instructor at SIUE.

Thomas O. Baldwin, physics professor and director of the SCIS program, is spending the academic year (1974-75) as an American Council of Education Fellow in Academic Administration, assigned to the University of Colorado at Boulder. In his absence, the SCIS program will be directed by Ronald Bruno, assistant professor of physics.

Baldwin explained that the SCIS teaching methods and materials involve a "hands-on" approach, introducing children to scientific knowledge through their personal experiences with many different physical and biological materials.

He said it is important for teachers of all elementary grades to be skilled in the techniques, and the second year of inservice training is being provided to assist teachers above the third grade level.

Further details and applications for the programs may be directed to Professor Henderson at the SIUE physics department.

GCHS North to induct 48 into honor society

Granite City High School North Chapter of the National Honor Society will induct 48 new student members in a semi-annual membership ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 12, in the North cafeteria.

Presentation of the new members will be made by Gilbert V. Wainsley, principal.

B. J. Davis, superintendent of schools, will be the guest speaker.

Brent W. Weiss, chapter president, will preside at the meeting.

Other officers are Robert Holshouser, vice-president; Cheryl E. Davis, secretary; Nina L. Fallon, treasurer; Michael R. Waldo, parliamentarian, and Jamie M. Stachurski, news reporter.

Currently there are 57 active members in the GCHS North chapter.

To be eligible for election to the chapter, candidates must be members of the junior or senior class and have a minimum scholarship average of 4.0 (B). Their eligibility is then considered on the basis of leadership, service, and character. Candidates are selected by a faculty council, consisting of the principal and selected members of the faculty.

"The object of the honor society is to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership and to encourage the development of character in all students here at North," Weiss said.

Dr. Gonia Michaeloff, faculty advisor, commented, "National Honor Society members are expected to continue their exemplary contribution to both the school and the community in general."

The National Honor Society ranks as one of the oldest and most prestigious national organizations for high school students.

Since 1921 more than six million students have been selected to membership. The sponsoring organization, the National Association of Secondary School Principals, since 1945 has awarded more than two million dollars in scholarships.

The 48 students to be initiated Monday are:

Seniors: Rebecca A. Flanagan, Shannon Harastiaux, Tammi R. Lupardus, Sherri L. Marcum, Eric D. Schmisser, E. E. Shuppert, James E. Starling and Kathleen M. Thompson.

Gray, Jayne Harding, Robert Harper, Tammy R. Johnson, Mary Kamaduski, Carol L. Kinney, David Kwiatkowski, Alice M. Langston, Mark A. Lynn, Diane Marcus.

Kenneth L. McCrory, Tammy E. Monroe, Jonathan B. Newcomb, Annette M. Niemeyer, Rebecca D. Painter, Judith Ann Rash, Danny E. Revell, David Robertson, Ronnie E. Ross, Ann K. Rowden, Tommy A. Schocker, Glenn D. Schubert, Gregory P. Schubert, Karen S. Slawar, Vincent Straubinger, Sue A. Sykes, Teresa J. Tingley, Karen Tolen, Kim D. Turner, Tammy Walton, David Weissenborn, and Brenda S. Wood.

State road rule book simplified

With help from a task force of educators, the Illinois "Rules of the Road" has been made a simple, instructional textbook instead of a public relations tool, Michael J. Howlett, secretary of state, said Friday.

Howlett spoke at the annual convention of the Illinois Education Association at Chicago. He presented public service awards to members of his Vehicle Rules of the Road Advisory Committee, all IEA members, who helped rewrite the booklet.

"Rule of the Road is a guide for safe driving and a reference work for motorists preparing to take a driver's license examination," said Howlett.

"In 1973, we published a new edition, written with the help of high school driver education teachers. It cost 8.9 cents a copy, compared to 17.3 cents for the last publication of the booklet in 1971.

"Last year, we printed another edition of a million copies. Costs of paper had risen rapidly, my machine, but we still kept the unit price below 12 cents, more than a nickel lower in 1974 than in 1971.

"We kept the cost down by eliminating photographs of elected officials, reducing the use of color and dropping scenery photos.

"The number of pages was reduced, although material on trucks and buses, previously a separate pamphlet, was included in the new booklet.

"In our next edition, to be published this year, we have a photograph of a human being, but it won't be an elected official. Our cover will portray Kelley Jordan, the winner of our bicentennial license plate contest, with her winning design.

"Miss Jordan was 16 years old, a fourth-grader at the Oak Dale School, in Normal, when her design took first prize from among 400,000 entries submitted by Illinois school children.

"You will see her design on every Illinois car and truck in 1976. She will be showing it to you in the next edition of Rules of the Road in the Red, white and blue colors she selected.

"We must use some color in the booklet, anyway, because the meaning of eight basic colors of road signs should be memorized by motorists. We will have the colored signs on the back cover.

"We are proud of the cost reduction in our new Rules of the Road. But we are more proud of the improved readability.

"The 10 teachers who helped rewrite the manual have had experience training thousands of drivers. They were well prepared to simplify the language of a training manual.

"They produced a book with about the same reading level as your newspaper. It tells potential drivers all they need to know to pass the license test and operate a car safely.

"The driver education teachers who served on the advisory committee have made a contribution, without compensation, to improve traffic safety.

"Public opinion polls have reported an ominous cynicism about government among the American people. There is a distrust of public officials and an inclination to stay out of public affairs.

"The cure for what may be wrong in government is not apathy. The cure is more involvement by the most capable and talented individuals available.

"Government needs citizen involvement more today than ever before. It especially needs the expertise of teachers, who are better educated and better informed on what is going on than the average citizen."

Clarifies sewer issue

Walter "Dick" Sparks, supervisor of Chouteau Township and chairman of the Madison County Board's sewer committee which is planning the proposed Four Township Sanitary Sewer, clarified an issue Friday on the placement of new sewers in the Mitchell area which has been the subject of some confusion.

Sparks said the initial sewer program called for the sewers to run behind homes in several areas of Mitchell.

Engineer Ed Juneau of the Sheppard, Morgan and Schwaab consulting and engineering firm, who is preparing plans for the sewers, later changed some locations to the street rights-of-way in front of some homes.

Residents of those homes at a meeting last week objected to the changes and Sparks requested that Juneau revise the plans, returning the sewer location to behind the houses. Juneau agreed to make the necessary changes.

"It may require an additional lift station, because of different grades behind the houses, but we are designing the program to suit the people who will be using the new sewers," Sparks commented.

Born in Doniphan, Mo., he was a Quad-City area resident 23 years and was employed for the past nine years as a maintenance worker at Central Mining and Equipment Co., St. Louis.

Mr. Walton was a veteran of World War II and was a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars in Cahokia.

Survivors include seven sisters, Mrs. George (Willie) Gallas of Granite City, Mrs. Lloyd (Ruby) Swafford of St. Louis County, Mrs. Frank (Lettie) Rossie, of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Harry (Agnes) Beatty of Tucson, Arizona, Mrs. Edwards (Elizabeth) Rauth of St. Louis, Mrs. Pansy Wilkes of St. James, Mo., and Miss Edith Walton of St. Louis.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

CIVIC PARK SIDEWALKS were being scraped clean at 8:15 a.m. today of the snow and ice by Adrean Rains, an employee of the Granite City Park District. Snow, covering sleet that fell Sunday, made sidewalks and area streets hazardous. Street department crews were called out at 9 p.m. Sunday in Granite City at salt streets and intersections.

AREA SNOWFALL created extra early morning chores for many people, including Charles Terry, manager of the P. N. Hirsch & Co. store, 1337 Nineteenth St. Rain on Sunday changed to sleet and then to snow. One to three inches more snow is forecast before ending late today.

May name

president of the campus, said in a letter to Mrs. Beatty, "For myself I can say that her name added, 'I love children and couldn't be mean to them.'"

Miss Mulberry and her family moved to Granite City in 1901 from Carrollton, Ill., where she was born Dec. 17, 1886, in a combination log and frame house.

She was the youngest of five children, with three sisters and one brother.

Her mother, Margaret Schuber, immigrated with her family from Sweden.

After surviving the Chicago fire in 1886, they moved to Carrollton. Margaret Schuber married John S. Mulberry in Greene County Nov. 8, 1877. Nine years later, daughter Margaret was born.

Miss Mulberry was known as "Baby Mulberry" by her classmates.

"I used to walk a half mile to school on my own without anybody carrying me when I was five years old. I didn't like them calling me baby and that is why I did it," reminisces Miss Mulberry.

Having made up her mind at the age of seven to become a teacher, she began her career in 1907 after graduating from Granite City High School and attending Illinois State Normal University.

She never obtained a degree, but went to four other universities, including Washington University, St. Louis University, Harris Teachers College and Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

"I took only courses that would help me in my work. I have enough credit for a degree, but never went back for it. I went to school evenings and Saturdays; that was the only way I could do it," said Miss Mulberry.

She taught for three years in Granite City and moved on to East St. Louis.

"East St. Louis had a bigger and better educational system at the time and I felt I would be able to use more of my training there," she related.

Her first class in the Monroe School, located at Eighth and North Ave., consisted of unruly fourth grade children who had driven, three other teachers away within a three-month period.

"These children just needed someone to make them mind: nobody ever made them mind before," she recalled.

Her accomplishment was recognized and she was selected to "cleanup" other classes at Emmerson School, located at Eighth and Bowman. She eventually became principal of the eight-room school and taught eighth grade classes.

"I was a good teacher. I knew how to discipline," But, she added, "I love children and couldn't be mean to them."

She studied for two years with Dr. John E. Wallace Wallin, director of the Psycho-Educational Clinic and lecturer at Harris Teachers College, to learn more about mentally handicapped children.

Dr. Wallin tried to encourage her to obtain a Ph.D. degree in psychology, but she did not for personal reasons.

Instead, she accepted the request of W. W. Potts, superintendent of the East St. Louis school system, to identify and test a group of children and start her first class for mentally and physically retarded children in 1910.

The first class was held on the floor of the Horace Mann School (now Rock Junior High) and was relocated as Theodore Roosevelt School to what would become the East St. Louis Public Library on Fourth and Broadway.

She wrote her own plan called the "Course of Study for the Theodore Roosevelt School for Use in the Retarded Classes of East St. Louis, Ill."

The school became known as the ungraded school as students advanced at their own pace and were not given grades.

Her first job was to identify children who needed help. She accomplished this through the cooperation of other teachers and principals in the area who submitted names of students in their classes whom they thought would benefit.

"They brought each child to me if they thought I could do something for them. I never turned anyone away," said Miss Mulberry.

"Nobody ever refused me any information about their family history. The parents knew I was there to help their child and would cooperate by parting with any information that would help me identify the cause of their child's problem," Miss Mulberry said.

She checked home conditions, parental treatment and training and obtained information about the child's lifelong surroundings.

Each child was given a physical examination by physicians appointed by the Board of Education. Miss Mulberry then gave each child the Benet-Simon intelligence test to determine if the child was teachable or trainable according to a score of above or below 70 per cent on the test.

She interviewed each child to determine his attitude about his surroundings, and his likes and dislikes, and to determine his abilities as well as what he enjoyed doing and was capable of doing.

Miss Mulberry taught her students everything they would need to know in order to make a living and survive in the world. She taught them manual arts, electricity, carpentry and included all of the academic subjects, such as history, mathematics and English.

She taught the value of money by setting up a store in the classroom. Each child took turns being the proprietor or customer.

This aided in teaching how to count money, how to budget and plan, and how to be courteous. Miss Mulberry and her students also reclaimed land which was burned out during a 1917 riot near the school. They cleared the debris and constructed a park and baseball diamond.

Her experience in helping acquire land in Granite City for what is now Wilson Park and working as a director of playgrounds in Granite City during the summers aided her in this project.

Her desire to help and educate extended to teaching English and government to immigrants who needed naturalization papers in order to stay in the country.

"I taught a class of 204 men. Out of this, 200 passed their test. I asked the judge to give me one more week to train the other four men. They all passed," she noted proudly.

She ended her 50-year career as a teacher in 1957 at the age of 70 and went on to a new livelihood as an antique dealer. She opened her shop at 23th and St. Clair in East St. Louis and called it "Ye Olde Antique Shoppe."

The state bought her property 12 years later in order to tear it down and build a highway.

She then moved back to Granite City to be near what was left of her immediate family, her sister and the sister's four children.

Several of Miss Mulberry's students still remember her and visit her occasionally.

Two of her former pupils from classes before she began work with disabled children are Bud Symonds of Fairview Heights, presently a horse trainer and mobile home dealer, and Bernice Goedde.

Miss Goedde studied architecture at Washington University and was one of the persons directly responsible for construction of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Miss Goedde and Delyte Morris, former president of Southern Illinois University, threw out the first shovels full of dirt at a groundbreaking ceremony May 2, 1963. A picture of the event is displayed in the office of the University News Service located in the basement of the General Office Building on the campus.

Miss Mulberry received recognition for her work during the Kennedy administration when President John F. Kennedy established "Exceptional Children's Week."

She was given a plaque at a banquet held in her honor in recognition of her services to the handicapped of Madison and St. Clair counties.

Dr. Robert Hawkins, chairman of the Building Naming Committee, reports that one of the classroom buildings will be named for Louis H. Sullivan, an Illinois architect who has a history of his works displayed in the Lovejoy Library on campus.

The committee has reduced a long list of names to four choices to name the other classroom building currently being built. The choices are Jane Adams, Martin Luther King Jr., Adlai Stevenson and Margaret Mulberry.

Dupo regional games for Venice Tuesday, Madison Thursday

The attempt to climb the Illinois High School Association Class A basketball ladder to a state championship begins this week for both Madison and Venice high schools at the Dupo regional.

The Trojans of Madison have received top-seeding at Dupo. Venice is seeded second, Columbia third and St. Henry Prep of Belleville fourth. All have impressive win-loss records.

Brooklyn Lovejoy is seeded fifth, Freeburg six and the host school seventh.

Madison, ranked seventh in the state among small (750 enrollment or less) schools, has defeated the defending regional champion Venice Red Devils in regular 1974-75 season competition.

Venice is considered as possibly the Class A state favorite due to its tournament experience and consistent ability to establish long victory streaks.

Both Madison and Venice finished their regular seasons during the weekend — Venice hosting Wood River Friday and Madison traveling Saturday to meet Mount Zion.

St. Henry and Freeburg will open the Dupo regional at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

On Wednesday, Venice and Brooklyn will clash at 7 p.m., and Columbia and Dupo will collide at 8:30 p.m.

Madison, which drew a first-round bye, will meet the winner of the St. Henry-Freeburg contest at 7 p.m. Thursday.

And at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, winners of the Venice-Lovejoy and Columbia-Dupo games will meet.

A championship contest between the victors of Thursday's two contests will decide the title at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 28.

Raceway plans season opener

St. Louis International Raceway is planning to open its 1975 season Sunday with a special "funny car" program.

Also to be featured will be the new "top eliminator" class which will feature all racing cars that can travel the quarter mile in less than 13 seconds.

The new class combines pro-stock, pro-comp, super stock and street eliminator cars into one class, which "should provide stronger competition among all the drivers for a purse larger than ever," according to track owner Wayne Meinert.

Gates will open at 9 a.m. Sunday, weather permitting, and eliminations will begin in the early afternoon.

Cougar tourney hopes dim with new defeats

The gloomy prospect for a post-season NCA A basketball tournament bid was etched deeply in the faces of Coach Jim Dudley and his wife, C. J., immediately after his Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville cagers had dropped a 72-61 decision to Quincy College Friday.

It was the fourth loss in the Cougars' last six games and ran their record to a still respectable 17-4, with three more games remaining, including tonight's game in Chicago against the Ramblers of Loyola University, a Thursday contest against Blackburn College at Carlinville and the finale Monday (March 3) in St. Louis.

The Cougars' recent misfortunes, there is little doubt, began nine days ago as SIUE battled the University of Wisconsin-Parkside on the Marquette Community College floor. The Cougars were leading the Ramblers comfortably when, in a fierce scramble for a rebound, Parkside's All-American Gary Cole caught the SIUE freshman center, 6-10 Dan Donahue, in the nose with a

3rd quarter slump in scoring leads to 71-62 Trojan loss

The Madison Trojans had their hopes of a season-ending cage victory thwarted Saturday at Mount Zion when the Trojans, in a third-period scoring slump, allowing the host Braves to rally for a 71-62 victory.

Madison won the first half with a sparkling 17-5 record for 1974-75.

The Trojans held a 19-16 margin going into the second period and led by ten, 36-26, at halftime.

But they saw their hopes of winning go down the drain after shooting only 11 per cent, two of 18 field goal attempts, in the third quarter.

Curtis Bradley scored two points and Darryl Franklin three in that quarter as Mount Zion took the lead, 46-41, on a 20-5 scoring burst.

Devils read for tourney following 84-59 cage victory

The Venice Red Devils ended their regular 1974-75 cage season with a 23-2 record, winning their final contest Friday at home.

They defeated River 84-59 in a runaway game.

The Devils began hitting the basket early and often, in contrast to their sometime slow starts.

Venice led 22-16, 49-28 and 71-40 at the quarters, but was outplayed by the Oilers 19-13 in the final period.

The Red Devils hit 38 field goals and eight free throws, while the Oilers made good 24 field shots and only one charity toss.

Ed Wallace scored the most points for Wood River, 13.

Junior Mike Henry returned to his early season scoring form to garner 23 points for Venice.

James Turner tallied 13, Reggie Gardner 15, Jeff Corrie 12, James Crowder eight and Mike Madison drew a first round bye at Dupu.

GC ice hockey team qualifies for semifinals

The Granite City ice hockey club moved into semifinal contention of the Madison-St. Clair High School Ice Hockey Association season-ending tournament at Wilson Park by splitting two games during the weekend, defeating Edwardsville 3-2 Friday and losing 2-0 Saturday to defending champion Alton.

By the process of a two-defeat elimination, Collinsville, Alton "B" and Wood River are out of the running for the 1974-75 tourney crown.

Granite City next will play Edwardsville at 10:30 p.m. Friday, with the victor meeting Alton at 10 p.m. Saturday for the championship.

Other tournament game results were: Friday—Wood River 7, Alton "B" 2; Saturday—Edwardsville 7, Wood River 2.

Nita Graham state winner in hoop shoot

Nita Graham, nine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Graham, 3136 Myrtle Ave., made good 15 of 25 charity tosses Saturday at the University of Illinois to capture state honors for her age in the Elks-sponsored state "hoop shoot" free throw contest.

Miss Graham advanced to the state meet after capturing first place last month in a Southwest District Elks contest held here at Grigsby Junior High School.

She will join six other state champions in regional competition Saturday, March 1, at the University of Iowa in Iowa City.

Illinois contributed more than food, war material, and transportation. It also supplied manpower. Abraham Lincoln's first call for troops brought a flood of volunteers to Springfield to sign up. Although the Illinois quota was only six regiments, the General Assembly authorized an initial 10. By the war's end, 259,052 Illinois soldiers would serve, including at least 181 Negro troops. Of the total number, only 3538 had to be drafted, and only 55 bought their way out by paying a substitute (a provision of the draft law of the time). The state fielded 17 infantry regiments, two light artillery regiments, eight independent artillery battalions, and several special units.

Most of the troops mustered in at Camp Douglas in Chicago or Camp Butler in Springfield. Regiments represented ethnic, geographic, and cultural groups including the "First Scotch," the "Rock Island Rifles," the "Lead Mine Regiment," and the "Preacher's Regiment."

ILLINOIS FIGHTS THE CIVIL WAR

The importance of Illinois in winning the Civil War can hardly be overemphasized. The state was a leading supplier of corn, wheat, and livestock to the army and to the nation; and Chicago was the West's leading commercial and industrial center. The strategic location of Cairo soon established that city as the troop and supply staging area for the Western campaigns.

Illinois contributed more than food, war material, and transportation. It also supplied manpower. Abraham Lincoln's first call for troops brought a flood of volunteers to Springfield to sign up. FULL-TIME LEGISLATORS

By LESTER W. BRANN, JR. President Illinois State Chamber of Commerce

The era of the "Citizen-legislator" in Illinois politics is slowly, but consistently, drawing to a close.

In the current 79th General Assembly now meeting in Springfield, there are 55 legislators who consider themselves in the job full time. By contrast, during the 77th General Assembly, which met during 1971 and 1972, only 16 legislators considered themselves full time lawmakers.

During the immediate past General Assembly, some 37 legislators treated their positions full time. In a couple of cases, the full time legislators were also housewives. The trend is clear: We are seeing more and more elected to hold seats in the General Assembly who treat legislation as a full time occupation.

There are many reasons for this trend, but two seem to stand out. The growth in state government has demanded that the General Assembly meet more frequently and the state's budget is now determined on an annual basis. Previously, two-year budgets were the rule.

Secondly, the salaries and expense money given to legislators now enable a person to work full time as a legislator without a source of outside income. Members of the Senate and House in Illinois now receive $20,000 in yearly salary and $36 per day for expense while in session in Springfield.

Despite the fact that we are seeing more full time legislators, there are still many occupational groups represented in the General Assembly. Leading the field is the legal profession with 76 lawyers in both houses. Twenty-eight legislators are also in real estate and insurance. Twenty are in business of some sort; but only 3 in industry.

Other occupational breakdowns include: banking and finance; 3; local city and county employees, 8; teachers, 5; public relations, advertising and public affairs, 5; farming, 9; pharmacists, 3; funeral directors, 2; and hotel management, 2.

The legislature also has one minister, policeman, florist, jeweler, airport manager, electrical engineer, student, accountant, research clerk, plumbing contractor, dentist, optometrist, chiropractor, and a labor union official.

What is the significance of a move away from the citizen legislator to legislating as a full time job? It means we must be more careful, more demanding of those we send to Springfield.

Carl Paoli, 53, dies Sunday

Carl Paoli, 53, of 402 East A St., Belleville, former long-time Granite City resident and local beauty salon owner, was pronounced dead at 10:20 a.m. Sunday by Dr. C. C. Kane, St. Clair County coroner.

Mr. Paoli, who had been under a physician's care, died at the home of friends in Swansea. An inquiry is pending.

A native of Collinsville, Mr. Paoli owned and operated the Coiffure School of Beauty Culture, Inc., in Belleville, for several years in partnership with a brother. Freshman planning at GCHS North Counselors at Granite City High School North are currently assisting all current freshman students to individually plan their high school program.

This is a forerunner to the fall registration, and the goal is to familiarize the freshman high school student with the various curriculum offerings at the high school — and to help him set realistic goals for himself for the next three years. The program selected is not binding, it is flexible and may be changed as the need arises.

Students are being encouraged to discuss these programs with their parents, and parents are invited to make suggestions and to call the counselor if there are any questions, a spokesman said.

Big Bird and owlsh Bill lead Channel 9 'ratings'

What could Big Bird, Louis Rukeyer, and Bill Buckley possibly have in common? Well, they are the three most popular personalities appearing on this area's public television station, KETC-TV, Channel 9, according to a poll just taken among the 12,000 contributing members of the station.

In formulating plans for purchase of Public Broadcasting Service programming for the coming season, the KETC-TV staff placed a ballot in the current issue of the station's program guide, Kaleidoscope, seeking response by Feb. 15. Members were asked to vote on programs they felt Channel 9 should seek funds to purchase next year.

Big Bird's Sesame Street program won the balloting hands down with 610 votes, while Rukeyer's Wall Street Week rated second with 490 votes and Buckley's Firing Line rated third with 420.

Tied for fourth place in the Channel 9 "ratings" were the Boston Symphony's Evening at Symphony and the science documentary series Nova with 410 votes each.

Close behind in popularity with 400 votes was the consumer education series Consumer Survival Kit, followed by The Electric Company and Hollywood Television Theater with 330 votes each.

Other programs receiving more than 200 votes, listed in the order of rank, included: a new auto mechanics telecourse, Edna's Garage; a new Children's Theater series, Robert Cromie's Book Beat; a new series about aging called Growing Older; a new series titled Lowell Thomas' America; the new Maggie's Physical Fitness Program; Miesberger Library; a new series titled Sex & You; and Theater in America; Washington Week in Review; Zoom, Woman and Soundstage.

Bidding for programming through the new Public Broadcasting Service Station Programming Cooperative (SPC) will begin in March, and the programming marketing scheduled to be concluded in late April.

Roughly one third of public television programming currently is distributed through the Station Programming Cooperative, a unique market system in which the stations purchase programming from each other.

Durden went to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was treated for a cut to his upper lip and contusions to his face. X-rays were taken and he was released.

Vadalabene given key to Springfield

In recognition of his work in the passage of Public Act 78-1239, State Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene of this district has been presented with the key to the City of Springfield by Mayor William C. Telford. The legislation also created the Metro-East Performing Arts Authority for the local area; it will allot $15 million in bonds guaranteed by the state for construction of a civic center.

The key presentation was made at last week's board meeting of the Springfield Metropolitan Exposition and Auditorium Authority, at which the board also offered Sen. Vadalabene a framed resolution in appreciation of his efforts in securing passage of Act 78-1239. "It gives me a great deal of pleasure to know that all my work in behalf of what began as Senate Bill 166 has resulted in such benefits to the entire state, and the capital city in particular," Sen. Vadalabene responded.

"Of course, my prime consideration was my home area; but this bill is an excellent example of what can be achieved when Downstate legislators work together on the needs of all our citizens."

The resolution presented to Vadalabene reads as follows: "The Springfield Metropolitan Exposition and Auditorium Authority is endeavoring to provide to the Springfield area a suitable auditorium facility.

"Additional funding will enable the Authority to improve the quality of the auditorium. The support of the Illinois General Assembly in providing state funding is a key factor in the success of the project.

"Whereas, the leadership and concentrated effort of Senator Vadalabene have procured the passage of Public Act 78-1239 which grants to the Springfield Metropolitan Exposition and Auditorium Authority $5 million for use in the auditorium construction.

Geo. Hurcoy Jr. dies at 39; veteran officer

Veteran Granite City police officer George Hurcoy Jr., 39, of 2406 State St., died at 5:30 p.m. Saturday at Incarnate Word Hospital, St. Louis, one week after emergency surgery. Mr. Hurcoy, who had been a Granite City policeman nearly 11 years, was rushed to the hospital Feb. 15 for an appendectomy and during surgery, doctors found a rupture in the colon. He had several operations during the week he was in the hospital. Chief of Police George Vetter this morning commented, "He was a dependable and a stable officer. He was not one you had to worry about. He was a well-trained man and we will miss him."

His fellow officers remembered him this morning as "unselfish," "dedicated to his job," and as "a kind man and a good police officer."

Mr. Hurcoy, a lifetime resident of Granite City, started on the police department May 6, 1964. Since that time, he had received six commendations from the chief for his part in solving crimes through outstanding police work.

He first was commended in 1966 for work in apprehending a suspect in a stolen car. In 1967, he was honored for a difficult burglary arrest and in 1968, he aided in clearing six burglaries by arresting juveniles.

He was commended by the chief in 1973 for his aid in apprehending suspects in a burglary at Reese Drug Store in Belleme Village Shopping Center, and for the arrests of three involved in the theft of a vehicle later in the year.

His arrest made in 1974 led to the clearing of three auto burglaries cases and he again was commended by the Chief.

He attended numerous police schools, including classes in fingerprinting, riot control, report writing, data processing and a three-week University of Illinois school on police work.

He also was a marksman on the gun range with several qualifying certificates. He was a member of St. John United Church of Christ and belonged to the Granite City Police Union 1347.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Barbara Hurcoy; one son, Miklos Hurcoy; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hurcoy Sr. and Michael Wayne and Bill Hurcoy, all of Granite City; two sisters, Mrs. Russell (Rosemarie) Weil of Granite City, and Mrs. Richard (Priscilla) Evans of Collinsville; great-grandmother, Mrs. Pirocha Hurcoy of Granite City, and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Michael of Granite City.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Sleet, snow glaze streets

More than one and a half inches of rainfall during the weekend — changing Sunday night to sleet and then to snow — plagued Quad-City area motorists today with ice-glazed streets and highways and taxed street department workers in efforts to clear intersections and major roadways.

An estimated four inches of snow fell in the Quad-City area overnight. Rain gauges at the Chain of Rocks canal where western records are maintained for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, recorded 57 of an inch precipitation, between 8 a.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. today, with about 40 of an inch of that amount representing four inches of snow.

The reading indicated rainfall during the morning and early afternoon Sunday, and was in addition to 15 of an inch of rainfall recorded between 8 a.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Saturday, and another 1.30 inches of rain between 8 a.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Sunday.

Arrested twice at same place Returning to the scene of an earlier arrest, Kenneth W. Baker, 19, of 1329 Robin St., Venice, was arrested a second time today by Madison County sheriff's deputies and additional charges of unlawful use of a weapon and reckless conduct where placed against him.

Baker, 19, was arrested at a 201 S. Main St. pistol allegedly was found in his car. At 3:30 a.m. Sunday, a Madison County deputy, while on patrol on Pontoon Road, reportedly heard four gunshots and saw four gun flashes from an approaching car.

With the assistance of the Granite City and Pontoon Beach police, the car was stopped at Pontoon Beach. Two live cartridges were found in the car according to authorities that Baker allegedly admitted carrying, but no weapon was found. He was charged with not having proper firearms identification and posted $100 cash.

Five other youths in the car were not charged. Sheriff's deputies maintained watch along Pontoon Road and at 4:45 a.m. Sunday they reported a car stop and someone got out and go into some nearby bushes.

Baker was then stopped for the second time by police and he was charged again when the pistol allegedly was found in his car.

He was released the second time after posting $200 cash of a $2,000 bond.

East Side divers host 50 prospects

The East Side Diving Club Inc., held its February meeting, at the World Wide Diving and Sports Center in Caseyville, with more than 50 prospective members attending. Coffee and pastries were served while slides from recent dives and scuba classes were shown.

A trip to Florida made by the club during the Christmas holidays was discussed and plans were made for other trips in March and June.

Divers visited Silver Springs, Fla., where many "Tarzan" movies and episodes for "Sea Hunt" were filmed. Visibility in the spring and the Crystal River was 100 feet or more, divers said. There are many fresh water springs in Florida, it was noted.

After spending two days diving in the springs, the club continued to the Florida Keys where trips out to the reef permitted underwater exploring, photography and specimen collecting.

Reefs visited included Sombra, Molasses and the John Pennkamp Underwater State Park. Before returning home the divers spent an additional two days in the springs area and studied many species of fish along the coastal region.

Trips arranged by the club are conducted at minimal cost, an officer said. An average of $110 per person was expended for the recent nine-day journey, including gas, meals, lodging and boat rentals. All trips are open to the public, however, priority is given to club members, he said.

New officers introduced at the meeting were: Larry Murphy, president; Glen Gates, vice-president; Jon Grams, secretary; Debbie Holt, treasurer and public relations; Jack Justice, armistaster; and Ed Brokaw, safety and training.

Murphy said the annual dues have been reduced to $10 per year due to success of several club projects. Included in the club fee are free air fills from the club's compressor and cascade, free tank inspection and quarterly newsletters containing details about dives and other events.

Group discounts are available on rental equipment and all club dives depart from the Caseyville shop, which provides two or three vans for transportation, Murphy said. Two boats are acquired for club use, he added.

Persons interested in attending a dive on Sunday at Leaper, Mr. or wish to join the group on its Florida trip are invited to call Murphy, at 422-4825, Jon Grams, at 345-1079, or stop by the diving center at Route 157 and E. Scates Street, Caseyville.

The club's membership roster now totals 96, Murphy said. Several members comprise the Madison County Underwater Recovery Team, which consists area law enforcement agencies. Divers from the East Side club were among those conducting the search for the bodies of two young women in the vicinity of Chouteau Island. Ron Kibort, chief diver and operator of Ron The Diver, Inc., a commercial diving business, located the body of Mrs. Donna Marie (Rials) Bartels, Murphy said.

During the underwater search, Kibort also found nine late model cars dumped in the same area where he headed salvage operations to recover 12 stolen vehicles about a year ago. A lack of funds to pay divers and for salvage equipment caused the operation to be suspended.

All recovery work in the Mississippi River is accomplished by feel and not visually, Kibort pointed out. The newly dumped vehicles appear to be in good condition, at least very little has been removed from them, he said.

85 at Anchorage potluck luncheon

Tickets for Tuesday's basketball game to aid the Officer Friendly Athletic fund were distributed to members of the Anchorage Senior Citizens Club at a meeting held last week at the Anchorage Recreation Center.

A potluck luncheon was served by 85 members, preceding a business session, conducted by Mrs. Georgia Butler.

Members made plans to attend a program in Collinsville on Saturday to hear the Barbershop singers and also discussed the Senior Citizen's Fair, scheduled for March 26 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Mrs. Winnie Tucker received a floral arrangement, donated by Willis Flowers, in observance of her birthday. Nine guests attended, including Officer Friendly Glenn Wright of the Granite City Police Department.

Mrs. Butler said the next business and birthday meeting will be held at 1 p.m. March 5.

GRILLED LIVER DINNER EVERY DAY AT GRANT'S — $1.35

MR. AND MRS. JAMES URBANEK, whose wedding was solemnized at St. Martin of Tours Catholic Church. The bride is the former Miss Elaine M. Diak, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Diak, 1601 N. 51st St., Washington Park.

Elaine M. Diak becomes Mrs. James E. Urbanek

Miss Elaine M. Diak, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Diak, 1601 N. 51st St., Washington Park, and James E. Urbanek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Urbanek, 4227 W. 59th St., Chicago, exchanged wedding vows in an afternoon ceremony on Feb. 15 at St. Martin of Tours Catholic Church in Washington Park.

A double ring ceremony was performed at 3 o'clock by the Rev. Walter MacPherson before an altar adorned with bouquets of pink and white carnations.

The white carpeted aisle was illuminated with burning tapers in fine standards. The bride was escorted by her father, a former resident of the Quad-Cities.

Organist Raymond Banks played a program of wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. John J. Wenkel.

The former Miss Diak chose a gown of ivory marceline jersey fashioned with an Empire bodice and a semi-straight skirt which extended into a chapel train.

Pearls and crystals accented the high collar and cuffs and marked the high rise waistline. She wore a headpiece embellished with pearls and crystals to secure a long ivory illusion veil. She carried a cascade of white carnations and fuschia mums interspersed with red roses and pearl hearts.

Miss Dianne Diak, maid of honor and a sister of the bride, wore a full length gown of pale blue marceline jersey dress designed with long sleeves and a hooded jacket.

The bridesmaids, Miss Pat Diak, a sister of the bride, Mrs. Harlan Seymour, Mrs. Bob Rybka, the groom's sister, and Miss Kitty Cunningham, were attired in teal blue gowns identical in style to the honor attendant's dress.

Each held a cascade of pink miniature carnations, red roses and greenery.

The groom chose his brother, Geri Urbanek, as best man. Serving as groomsmen and ushers were Mark Diak, a brother of the bride, Bob Rybka, the groom's brother-in-law, Bob Shroba and Charles Busch.

Pictured and listed below are the employees who received this safety award at the end of 1974.

The combined total of no-accident experience for these employees is 670 years.

In addition, 267 other Laclede employees at Madison not pictured or listed, completed a combined total of 5462 years of service without a lost time accident. Their individual safety records range from one year to thirty-eight years.

Laclede is proud of these safe working employees and we think friends and neighbors will be, too.

Billion-dollar Power construction in 1975-76

Illinois Power Company's construction expenditures for 1975-1976 are estimated at one billion dollars, according to the annual report of the company being mailed to stockholders. Of this, about $100,000,000 will be spent in 1975, the report says. In the construction program are the completion early this summer of a third 600,000-kilowatt generating unit at the company's Baldwin station; construction for 1978 operation of a new 450,000-kilowatt coal-burning unit at the IP Havana station, and expenditures on the two 950,000-kilowatt nuclear units scheduled for service in the 1980s at a new site near Clinton.

Substantial additions to transmission facilities also are in the five-year program.

Wendell J. Kelley, president, in a letter to stockholders predicted improvement in earnings in 1975 with the rate increases that became effective this month.

The 1974 earnings were $2.36 per share of common stock, down 10 per cent from 1973 but up from the $2.07 noted for the 12-month period ended Sept. 30, 1974.

In his letter, Kelley credited the improved situation in part to better government and public understanding of the need for adequate utility revenues.

"Our number one goal," he said, "is earnings growth. The way to achieve it is simple, but not easy."

"Simply stated, rates must go up. Prices must reflect today's costs, including construction work in progress, and must be sufficient to allow earnings growth. "Just as important, rate increases applications must be acted upon more promptly. With earnings growth, the required capital should flow to our industry to enable us to build the facilities we know will be needed by our customers in future years."

"We are encouraged to note that voices in both the federal and state governments are expressing awareness of the peculiar financial problems of this industry and are beginning to be heard."

Illinois Power Co. serves electricity and gas in a 15,000-square-mile area of Illinois, including the Quad-Cities.

The annual report shows 1974 total operating revenues of $299,915,000, an increase of 12 per cent over 1973, and $44,650,000 in net income, a decrease of 5.4 per cent.

THE SCHERMERS BULLETIN

Preparations are already started for the Madison Lions Palm Sunday Pancake Brunch. This has been an annual affair for many years and we have tickets at the snack bar. Two kinds of sausage this year and the usual delicious Lions Club Pancakes, all you can eat for $2.00. Children $1.00 at the door.

The Schermers will have their annual blood bank drive on March 18. If you would like to "give," see Avery or leave word at the store. It is this blood bank that enables us to keep up with the demands for blood created by the Burned Children that we send to Cincinnati. Besides this, if you give, naturally your family is covered for one year.

Now that we've told you about the club news that we're involved with we can tell you that you should buy some of these Pork Loin that we have on sale. They are Hunter's Loin and the price is excellent. Hogs are in the $40.00 range and the outlook is that they will not get any cheaper; so a 89¢ Pork Loin out of a $40 hog has got to be a good buy.

Here are some meat buys that we recommend: Turkey Parts of all kinds, Cornish Hens, Riblets, Cooked Fish Patties, and Liver, Ground Beef in the 10-lb. pkg. is also a recommended "buy now" item.

Now for the clincher: We got a "buy" on canned grape soda. One flavor, but one great price; 10 cans for 99¢. We never thought we'd see 10c soda again, but "Schermers" have it."

Indict 4 in area robberies

Four men were indicted by a Madison County grand jury Thursday on charges of armed robbery in connection with two separate Quad-City area cases.

William Lendis Parker, 17, of 604 Chouteau Place, Mitchell, and John Ashburn, 208 Warsaw Lane, Mitchell, were named in a three-count indictment alleging they robbed three victims Dec. 29 in an auto on Chouteau Road near the levee.

The first count alleges the two used a knife and stole the auto, $3 and an old silver dollar from Dion Stotler, 18, of Kenton, Ind. The second count charges they took a wallet and $25 from Lloyd Hovey, 18, of 13 Nicolas Drive, Ponton Beach.

The third count charges the two stole a wallet and $35 from Joseph Clinton, 16, Plymouth, Ind.

The three victims allegedly were in Stotler's auto when they stopped to pick up a hitchhiker who directed them to a Mitchell home where they met a second man.

The second man later joined them in the car and directed them toward the levee where one man reportedly displayed a knife and the three were robbed.

Ashburn posted $1,000 cash and a $10,000 recognizance bond was released. Parker also was released after posting $500 cash and a $5,000 recognizance bond.

The grand jury also returned true bills on one count of armed robbery each against Dennis R. Boss, 23, and Robert Mueller, 17, both of 208 Cindy Lane, Shiloh, who allegedly robbed reliable loan Corp., 5 Gaslight Plaza, Ponton Beach, of $150 Jan. 29.

They allegedly used a knife in the robbery. Boss was taken into custody in O'Fallon the following day.

Bond was set at $25,000 for each.

Restore Memorial Day to May 30, Amvets urge

A drive to obtain 1,000 signatures in support of a bill currently before the Illinois General Assembly, seeking to change Memorial Day back to the traditional May 30 date, is being spearheaded in this area by local Amvets and Auxiliary members.

Mrs. Jackie Petras of Granite City, Auxiliary 4517 Division president, said the signatures are being sought this week throughout the Quad-Cities.

The petition asks state legislators to restore the Memorial Day holiday to its original May 30 date. The observance was changed in 1973 to the last Monday in May.

Mrs. Petras said she will deliver the signatures to interested legislators in Springfield this week.

Senate Bill 77, a legislative action to change the current Memorial Day designation back to May 30, will be debated Thursday and Friday in the Illinois Senate, Mrs. Petras said.

State Senator Robert W. Mitchell (R-Oswego) a U. S. Navy veteran of World War I, is leading the debate to restore the holiday to its original date.

Assisting Mrs. Petras in gathering the signatures are Amvets 25th District Commander Adam Petras; Amvets Post 51 Commander Earl Smith; Mrs. Betty Wilkins, Auxiliary 51 president, and members of the local Amvets and Auxiliary units.

Most Amvets and Auxiliary members in Illinois have indicated support of the bill, Mrs. Petras stated.

County development plan okayed at public hearing

About 75 persons attended a public hearing last week at Edwardsville on the Madison County Community Development Plan.

The hearing was required as part of the processing of an application for $984,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development for community development programs.

The county has been divided into five districts and each district has selected its own priority projects. Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City, chairman of District I (the Quad-City area) was among those who spoke, outlining this district's priorities, should the funds be approved.

The priorities also were detailed for all of the districts, and for the Madison County Board and the overall program was explained by Nelson Hagmann, chairman of the County Board.

There were no adverse comments offered at the hearing. A second hearing on the final report to the county's application is to be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 5, at the County Board room in the Madison County Courthouse at Edwardsville.

The application then will be submitted to the County Board and the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council for final approval before being sent to HUD for funding.

The county expects to receive about $7 million over the next three years under the new program.

Wm. Sezdlar GC fireman

William Sezdlar, 4028 Sara St., was appointed a probationary fireman by action of the City Council concurring in a recommendation of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners last week.

Sezdlar fills the vacancy created by the retirement of Edward Glutz.

The council also concurred in recommendations by the fire and police board for promotion of Engineer George Moran to captain, and Pipeman Walter Schmidt to engineer on the Fire Department.

2 Venice candidates ruled off ballot

The Venice City Electoral Board upheld the objections Thursday of Fourth Ward Alderman Oscar King of Venice and ruled that the names of James Allen Gardner and Vernel Jackson will not appear on the ballot in the April 15 Venice aldermanic elections.

The board heard each man state his case in a hearing at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville.

Gardner lives at 510 Meredocia Ave., and Jackson at 1213 Douglas Ave. Both addresses are in the Third ward but the two men filed petitions for election as aldermen in the Fourth ward.

Auto license deadline to be this Saturday

Illinois motorists have until midnight Saturday, March 1, to display 1975 passenger license plates on their automobiles.

Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett announced today that there will be no further extension of the deadline.

For special service to last-minute license plate buyers, three Secretary of State motor vehicle facilities in Chicago and the Centennial building in Springfield will be open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Venice officials making up the board are Mayor William "Mike" Ebersold, chairman; City Clerk Lloyd Patterson and First Ward Alderman E. Harry Bunte, the alderman with the longest service on the city council.

According to Mayor Ebersold the two men have the right to appeal the election board ruling in the courts.

Jackson told the board he would not say anything until he had talked to his attorney.

Gardner, a teacher at Madison High School, read a prepared statement in which he demanded the right to refute his petitions. Gardner claimed the boundaries of the wards are not publicly posted and that City Clerk Lloyd Patterson works days and is not available to answer questions.

But Patterson and City Attorney Harry Hartman told Gardner that city ordinances setting the ward boundaries are available from any city office.

Gardner told the Venice officials that he will seek legal action to get a place on the ballot.

Cahokia Mounds once inhabited by 40,000

Archaeologists believe about 40,000 people inhabited the Cahokia Mounds area between 800 and 900 A.D., according to James Anderson, curator of the Cahokia Mounds Museum.

Anderson spoke and showed slides at the Thursday noon meeting of the Granite City Optimist Club in the YMCA.

He explained the procedures of excavating and noted that each summer classes in archaeology are held in the mounds area.

Anderson told the club that on one mound a grave was uncovered with remains of a male, believed to have been about 45 years of age and apparently a "king" of the city, as nearly 150 young people had been sacrificed and buried with him.

Signs indicated that the people then were afraid of enemies as a stockade circled the main city.

Anderson said $4 billion anti-inflation program Governor Daniel Walker has in his money for a new museum at the site. Anderson told the Optimists the state has over two million artifacts in storage.

The Optimists were reminded that the Granite City Rotary Club will hold its annual "Hull day" serving at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church Tuesday during the noon hour and during the evening.

A tentative date of Sunday, April 13, has been set for the Optimist Club pancake and sausage day to be held in the Namekik Recreation Center. Optimist Robert Brave will be the program chairman at the group's meeting Thursday noon.

University of Illinois School of Medicine for tests which they hoped would lead to his sight being restored. The tests showed that Fincher's sight could not be restored.

Tests dash hope to restore sight

The news was sad as members of the Madison Lions' Club returned here with James Fincher, who was blinded and seriously injured in an auto accident five years ago. The Madison Lions befriended him and recently made arrangements for him to attend the University of Illinois Medical School at Chicago for tests.

He left Wednesday for Chicago, accompanied by Madison Lions Anthony Anselmo and Robert Bosworth. They were flown to Chicago in a private jet, donated by the Chrysalis Corp., St. Louis.

The airplane was obtained with the assistance of the Tri-City Shrine Club and Avery Schermer of Madison. Ambulance transportation to the airport was provided by Sedlack Funeral Home by John Sedlack, who also is a member of the Madison Lions Club.

Upon reaching Chicago Thursday, Fincher, Anselmo and Bosworth were met by the Chicago Lions' Club Band which played as Fincher was helped from the plane.

Fincher, who lives at 1536 Third St., Madison, was transported to the medical school hospital where tests showed the accident had damaged the nerves in the brain related to sight and could not be repaired.

The group returned the same day by plane to this area where the Lions pledged to continue visits and their help to Fincher.

The mayors will attend a social hour beginning at 6 p.m. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. Mayor W. J. Stieb of Highland, will host the event.

Tuition dispute results in suit

Granite City School District Attorney William Schooley was instructed by the Board of Education Thursday night to file an answer to a suit for $26,063 filed against the district by Lewis and Clark Community College.

The college district contends the money is due as tuition for Granite City district students, but school officials here said that the tuition charges involved in the suit were paid in scholarships from various sources.

The Granite City School Board discussed the suit during a special meeting of the board Thursday night. The suit was filed last week in Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville.

Youth stabbed

Clyde Banks, 18, of 134 Greiner Homes, Madison, was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 1:25 a.m. Saturday for stab wounds to his chest area which had authorities resulted from an incident at the home of a Madison woman.

Banks related he was at the woman's home when an argument began over money which Banks accused her of taking from his pocket. She then allegedly stabbed him with a pair of scissors.

No charges have been filed against the woman. Banks was released from the hospital after receiving treatment.

Mideast: Old Interests--New Policies?

By Prof. Samuel B. Grant, Jr.

(Dr. Grant is an assistant professor of history at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, specializing in Middle East affairs. His opinions are his own and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the faculty or administrators of SIUE.)

The roots of Secretary of State Kissinger's recent remarks concerning the possibility of American military intervention in the Middle East would seem to extend at least as far back as the events of October, 1973, a month which might well be regarded as a major turning point in world affairs.

On October 6th of that year, war between the Arabs and Israelis broke out. By mid-month, the Arabs had announced an embargo on oil exports. Even more important, the petroleum-producing countries unilaterally raised the price of oil. By the end of 1973, the price of crude oil had risen more than 400 per cent, giving rise to what might be history's most efficient cartel.

It is these events then, that prompted Kissinger's interventionist remarks in a recent issue of Business Week (January 13, 1975); remarks which were subsequently given "hypothetical" support by both Secretary of Defense Schlesinger and President Ford.

Because of the seriousness of Dr. Kissinger's remarks, it might be useful at this point to view U.S. relations with the Middle East from a somewhat broader perspective, and over a slightly longer time span.

Since World War II, America's basic interests in the Middle East have been fourfold: (1) to eliminate military conflict from the area, (2) to limit Soviet influence, (3) to guarantee the security of Israel, (4) to maintain access to Middle East oil.

The primary means of limiting Soviet influence has been through "defensive" alliances initially with the northern tier countries of Greece, Turkey and Iran. This involved such policy decisions as:

1947 - The Truman Doctrine: The U.S. agreed to assist Greece and Turkey with military and economic aid to preserve their independence.
1955 - The Baghdad Pact (a military alliance between Iraq, Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and the United Kingdom). While the U.S. did not join the alliance, it helped initiate the agreement, participated in committee meetings, etc.

1957 - The Eisenhower

PROF. S. B. GRANT, JR.

Doctrine: The U.S. promised aid to any nation in the Middle East "requesting assistance against armed aggression from any country controlled by international communism."

Although these policies met with some success, they suffered from certain inherent weaknesses. For example, the theory of defensive alliances did not take into account that member states might not be internally stable (e.g. Iraq, 1958).

Secondly, defensive alliances forced a choice on Arab states that many were not prepared to make. Thus some pro-Western states did not join the Baghdad Pact (e.g. Jordan, Lebanon) or endorse the Eisenhower Doctrine (e.g. Jordan) because of popular opposition to what was regarded as a new form of Western imperialism.

Finally, by insisting that those states not with the U.S. were against it, the policy of defensive alliances helped to push some nations (e.g. Egypt) toward closer cooperation with the USSR.

In order to maintain access to Arab oil on the one hand and to guarantee the security of Israel on the other, the U.S. faced the dilemma of seeking friendly relations with the Arabs as well as fulfilling a commitment to the welfare of Israel. As a result of these split objectives, U.S. policies have been at times contradictory or unsuccessful compromises.

An example of the latter is the support given by the U.S. to the more conservative monarchies such as Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Iraq (until 1958), Morocco and Libya (until 1969).

This has had the disadvantage of weakening the U.S. position with the more "revolutionary" (and perhaps more "progressive") Arab regimes.

Obviously our attempt to exert influence in the area through intermediaries has not been entirely successful. War has not been averted, the Soviet Union has greatly expanded both its diplomatic and physical presence in the Middle East, Israel's future has not been in such doubt since its creation in 1948, and American access to Middle East oil has been maintained at a price which has sent economic tremors through the world's industrial powers.

What then for the future? Our interests are clearly the same today as they were in the immediate post-World War II era. But should our policies remain unchanged? Kissinger's remarks indicate the possibility, but not probability, of one new course of action should conditions greatly worsen.

It would seem to this writer that the recent suggestion of Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois might indicate a more suitable course of action. On Jan. 28, Senator Percy called upon Israel to enter into direct relations with the Palestinians and to prepare for a withdrawal to essentially its 1967 boundaries. The senator insisted, however, that within these borders Israeli sovereignty should be supported.

It has become increasingly evident that there cannot be a Middle East settlement without a resolution of the Palestinian problem, i.e. by the creation of a State of Palestine somewhere in the Israeli occupied West Bank. Even many Israelis have begun to realize that the cause of over three million Palestinians is one of legitimate nationalism, not just a "refugee" problem.

Barring a miracle or catastrophe, there is no perfect solution to the Arab/Israeli conflict. The creation of a Palestinian state will involve strife before settlement. Nevertheless, Sen. Percy should be praised for courageously suggesting an alternative means of furthering American interests in the Middle East, interests which should include the welfare of all peoples concerned.

It's easy for parents and teachers to jump to the conclusion that a child is a "brat," according to Suzi Nall, instructor in early childhood education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

"It's really unfortunate how many children are the victims of prejudice and a lack of patience and understanding," Mrs. Nall said. "I think it's very important that we try to educate as many people as possible to be better teachers, and certainly better parents."

Mrs. Nall believes that being a parent is one of the most important things a person will ever do, and she apparently is building this concept into the early childhood education program of the department of elementary education at SIUE.

A relatively new program, the early childhood concentration which leads to a baccalaureate degree is in its third year at SIUE. Bob Rockwell, assistant professor of elementary education, is director and assumes primary responsibility for the graduate program.

In her work with undergraduates, Mrs. Nall has established informal arrangements with many of the day care and nursery schools in the St. Louis metropolitan area to provide practicum experiences for SIUE students.

Particularly helpful to the students in gaining practicum experience is the early childhood education center on the SIUE campus, where approximately 50 children three to five years old are attending daily sessions. Most of the youngsters are children of SIUE students, who appreciate the opportunity for quality child care in a well-managed environment where learning and educational development are the prime objectives.

Mrs. Nall considers the child development center at Florissant Valley Community College one of the most comprehensive child care centers in the area. Offering care for children three months to six years of age, it has a "parent cooperative" which means parents assist in the management and teaching responsibilities. "We have a good working relationship with the center, and it provides excellent opportunities for faculty interchange and practicum experiences for our students," Mrs. Nall said.

According to Mrs. Nall, more schools on the Illinois side of the Mississippi River, both public and private, are developing early childhood centers. She feels the development is a direct result of current emphasis on early childhood education in addition to the growing number of graduates from SIUE with a degree in the concentration.

Presently, there are approximately 130 students in the program—80 at the undergraduate level and 50 in the master's curriculum. Mrs. Nall says the objectives of the program are "to expose students to children of pre-school age (many college age people do not realize what a preschooler is really like); to contrast developmental levels of the early childhood ages; to develop a realization of the rapid growth from infancy to the school age child; and to focus on academic and social skills among young children while teaching them about the world."

The key to all the learning experiences is "understanding," according to Mrs. Nall, who has a doctorate in curriculum and supervision from St. Louis University. She believes understanding is developed when students realize how important "play" is to children, how much children learn through their basic senses, and how to separate facts from misperceptions when observing children's behavior. "Students also need to understand what an important influence adults have on young children," the early childhood instructor added.

"A requirement of the program is for students to conduct at least six 'observations' of children outside the classroom—in stores, libraries, doctors' waiting rooms, etc."

"It's so easy to say that a child is a brat," Mrs. Nall explains. "Specifically, we need to ask ourselves, 'what did that child do?' She considers the practicum experiences for students a very important because "it gives them opportunities to observe children in formal settings."

Mrs. Nall's own classroom teaching experience has been embellished by numerous times when she and her husband have acted as substitute parents for friends who need to leave their children while the parents take business or vacation trips. "We find it very interesting and motivating to interact with children," she said. "Getting along with them is just a matter of patience and understanding."

PRETTY FACES—Florence Garufi of Edwardsville, R. 3, shares a mirror with an infant in an early childhood class at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Pre-school youngsters are brought to the class for observation and interaction with college students majoring in early childhood education.

BUILDERS—Dave Makowka (left) of Chicago, who is majoring in early childhood education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, helps four-year-old Glenn Freeman of Tower Lake Apartments add a "snowflake" to an artistic "mobile" at the Early Childhood Center on the SIUE campus. For Makowka, who works as an aide at the center, the experience also counts toward the practicum requirement of his major.

RAPID GROWTH—A realization of the rapid growth in early childhood from infant to toddler stages is emphasized in an early childhood methods class at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Mrs. Suzi Nall (left), instructor, believes actual exposure to pre-school youngsters helps college students develop a better understanding of early childhood behavior. Beside Mrs. Nall is a parent, Mrs. Bettie Lercher of Mascoutah, with her six-week-old son, Todd. Students include (left to right): Chris Yack, Belleville; Ruth Ramirez, East St. Louis; Carol Grebel, Granite City; and Florence Garufi, Edwardsville, R.R. 3.

such testimony or evidence, except for perjury committed in the giving of such testimony," it concluded.

The grant of immunity was signed by Madison County Circuit Judge Victor Mosle. Whitford and two other young men allegedly met the murder victims on Nameoki Tucker took them to Chouteau Island where it was alleged a disagreement developed.

Whitford allegedly took each victim, one at a time, out of the automobile in which they had been riding, and murdered them with a knife.

The other two men were alleged to have assisted in dragging the two bodies into the river. They have not been charged and are being considered as witnesses, a sheriff's department spokesman said Thursday.

Larry Whitford has been held in the Madison County Jail since Feb. 11.

A $500,000 bond was set following the indictment for two counts of murder. He earlier was held on $200,000 bond on charges of attempted murder. The arraignment was set for March 5.

While the clerk was in another section of the store, one of the three reached over the counter and ransacked a cash drawer, escaping with an undetermined amount of money.

National Steel expansion includes a big new mill in Indiana, continued Granite City Steel improvements

Any announcement about a $1 billion expenditure is sure to attract attention. National Steel Corporation's billion-dollar plans are of special interest here because it owns the 5,000-employee Granite City Steel and because some GC Steel executives hold identical responsibilities at the Midwest Steel Division, Portage, Ind.

Construction of a primary steelmaking plant at Midwest represents a logical step in a long-term National Steel plan. The plant site, 11 miles east of Gary, covers nearly a thousand acres, 750 of which the company acquired in 1970. At present, only about 52 acres of the Midwest Steel site are under roof. Midwest was built in 1959-1961 as a partial plant. It was equipped to finish large coils of hot-rolled steel into National Steel's characteristic product mix of light, flat-rolled and coated sheets, strip and tin mill products. But it produced no steel, instead importing coils from other divisions of the firm.

The original finishing mill was far ahead of its time in such respects as water quality control; it set standards which older mills will be required to meet in 1977.

The 1971 National merger with Granite City Steel and other local facilities to make and hot-roll steel with Midwest's finishing capacity, which was expanded about 60 per cent in 1970-72.

Virtually all of the hot-rolled coils Midwest receives are processed through an 80-inch continuous pickle line and either 52-inch or 80-inch five-stand cold reduction mills. Following cold reduction, the product is directed into one of three channels according to its intended use — tin plated and tin free steel, galvanized or cold-rolled products.

The steel plant authorized by the National Steel board on Feb. 19, will produce enough material to load the existing Midwest finishing plant. Also, it has built-in expandability to enable Midwest to grow with the market later in the 1980s.

The new mill is believed to be the most ambitious expansion project by a domestic steelmaker since the early 1960s, when Bethlehem Steel began a steelmaking and processing plant in Indiana. Unlike that plant, built on an undeveloped site, National's expansion fully complements the existing finishing facilities.

Expected to be in production in 1980, the Midwest mill will create about 2,300 permanent jobs and will produce 2,300,000 tons a year.

Steel that has been flowing to Midwest from here and other divisions will then be available for each division's own market growth.

As explained by George A. Stinson, chairman and president of National Steel, steel demand is projected to grow more than 2½ per cent a year, requiring 30 million tons of additional primary steel capacity by 1980.

National is at midpoint of a "rounding-out" expansion which will add more than one million tons of additional primary steel at its three existing principal plants — Granite City, Detroit and Weirton, W. Va. — by the end of 1976.

"We mean to provide a significant share of the needed 30 million tons of capacity. Regarding our ability to ship finished steel products, our programs will more than cover the growth requirements needed to maintain our present domestic market share of more than eight per cent. And they will allow room for growing market penetration," the chairman notes.

Granite City Steel and Midwest Steel President Howard M. Love adds, "The Granite City division has been a major supplier of hot-rolled coils to Midwest, but Granite City's own market is taking an increasing share of its hot-rolled production."

"Since the merger, we've completed major improvements here in raw materials handling and processing facilities and have increased the plant's capacity for producing blast furnace pig iron. This has, in turn, enabled Granite City Steel to produce more steel."

"We have also completed projects to raise productivity of hot-rolled coils and are expanding the 80-inch hot strip mill with construction of a fourth slab-heating furnace. We expect growth in the market served by Granite City Steel to continue during the 1970s, with the ultimate need for significant additional steelmaking capacity at Granite City."

Senator Sam not 'parochial'

Mascoutah Herald—An editorial in the Illinois News-Democrat Dec. 26 called Sen. Sam Vadalabene "parochial" for wanting the civic center he has battled for during three state administrations on a portion of the Southern Illinois University campus at Edwardsville in his district.

Sen. Sam has withstood the horse laughs of his colleagues as he proposed the civic center bill, patterned after the McCormick Place legislation. He saw his bill defeated without a supporting vote in the Senate.

He rewrote it, ran it through again, recalled old favors for his colleagues, horse-traded and finally got the legislation passed.

As a result, other cities who will benefit have been left out. Aurora, honor city of Peoria, Rockford—but in his home district, he's called parochial.

Why? Because the newspaper apparently is so parochial in its views it doesn't recognize SIU-Edwardsville as part of the metro-east community.

I saw Sen. Vadalabene Feb. 6 when I was in Springfield along with a delegation from Mascoutah—hardly the senator's district—to present him with the city's application for recognition as a bicentennial city.

Sen. Sam is on the state commission and will present it personally.

He also offered to present Mascoutah's requests for funds to the commission.

And while we were there picked up his phone to talk to the Interstate Commerce Commission to let them be supported Mascoutah's efforts to gain ownership of the old L&N Railroad Station.

Sen. Vadalabene's work includes unfreezing the highway fund freeze which resulted in millions of dollars in highway funds for St. Clair County, support of the Cahokia Mounds legislation which included St. Clair County; Levee District legislation, and a host of other bills needed by his friends in St. Clair.

Before Gov. Dan Walker was willing to sign the bill, I attended a breakfast meeting in Collinsville in which Vadalabene was explaining the bill to the press corps.

Since I've been supporting it for four or five years, I was there more as a spectator.

But I was shocked at the antagonism shown by the press toward the bill as favoring SIU-Edwardsville, as though SIU-Edwardsville was not a friend, but a foe.

Southern Illinois University is one of the greatest assets we have.

Since it was built, the state junior colleges came along and have joined it in helping to raise the level of education in the area. But, pre-SIU, we were in a sad way educationally.

Now all of a sudden some newspapers regard those national advantages, including the Mississippi River Festival, as suddenly undesirable.

SIUE and the MRF have done more to improve relations between the Mississippi River than all the editorials in all the newspapers on both sides of the river combined.

Value cannot be measured.

The Metro-East Civic Center can be used by SIUE on a rental basis as a basketball arena, for instance, and in the process help pay off the debt on the building, give a new status to the very fine SIUE Cougars who now play in high school gyms, and at the same time can postpone for years the expense to the taxpayers of Illinois of constructing a college gymnasium.

The facility could be used for many SIUE functions and related functions.

That fact means that it was a steady paying tenant that would go a long way toward guaranteeing its success.

And, remember, the SIUE site land, which would mean the full $15 million could be used for building.

There would be near Interstate 270 and on four-lane Illinois 157, making it as readily available to the public as SIUE, and would have a free tract of land, which would mean the full $15 million could be used for building.

Sure, I would like to see the center closed, in New Baden, Lebanon, Mascoutah or Fairview Heights.

But that's a parochial view, isn't it?

Why do I want to white elephant when it is already right where it is needed planned by the many who believe the vision to see that need while others scoffed and laughed.

Winter Wonderland Crime, punishment concern many

By BILL WINTER

The word "crime" touches a live nerve in many Quad-Cityans, Illinoisans and Americans.

Whether true or not, the general impression is that it's getting worse, or at least more visible, or in any case closer to home.

Governor Daniel Walker's 180-degree flip-flop on the subject has drawn comments from all 360 degrees of public opinion, varying from high praise to scathing denunciation.

Some label it outright "demagoguery," which is generally defined as a leader making use of popular prejudice and false claims and promises to gain (or keep) power.

Others say there has been no change in the man but only enlightened recognition of changing circumstances, coupled with courageous willingness to chart a new course when it becomes apparent that an earlier plan of action was failing.

Over-simplified and exaggerated, some believe that the governor initially favored opening all the prison doors, and then last week called for not only locking all cell doors but also throwing away the keys.

Two years ago, the Illinois Department of Corrections did veer toward a more forgiving attitude.

As of Feb. 18, the policy has become stern, and proposed legislation would place even more emphasis on punishment rather than rehabilitation.

Why the change? Gov. Walker directs a heavy barrage against the concept of indeterminate sentencing, which emphasizes rehabilitation as a goal and also as a device by which early release from prison is obtained.

He calls it "unfair and unjust" for two people committing the same kind of crime to serve significantly different lengths of time in prison.

He says there is an unacceptably high rate of recidivism—the rate of return to prison.

"This is one of the ultimate measures of how effective the criminal justice system is," the governor told the Press-Record.

More than one-third of the Illinois prison population has been before—33.7 per cent. More than one-fourth (25.7 per cent) of those on parole during a recent three-year period returned to prison or committed another crime.

His sentences permitted and actual time served for 11 felony offenses.

Much has statutory sentences ranging from 14 years to unlimited. The actual least and most times served (based on Illinois Department of Corrections sampling) is 7.8 and 26.13 years, with an average term of 11.4 years.

Unlimited sentences (to unlimited) has had an actual term range of nine months to 13.5 years, with an average of 3.45 years.

Other statistics:

Rape (4 yrs. to unlimited) 2.1 to 23.5 yrs., 6.42 yrs. average.

Indecent liberties (4 yrs. to unlimited) 2.33 yrs. to 5.9 yrs., 4.06 yrs. average.

Robbery (1 yr. to 20 yrs.) 1.5 months to 9.6 yrs., 1.74 yrs. average.

Burglary (1 yr. to 20 yrs.) 4 mos. to 11.8 yrs., 1.75 yrs. average.

Arson (1 yr. to 20 yrs.) 1.9 mos. to 6.25 yrs., 2.99 yrs. average.

Forgery (1 yr. to 10 yrs.) 8 mos. to 5.3 yrs., 1.39 yrs. average.

Attempted rape (1 yr. to 20 yrs.) 1.9 mos. to 2.3 yrs., 1.35 yrs. average.

Criminal damage to property (1 yr. to 10 yrs.) 9 mos. to 10.8 yrs., 1.17 yrs. average.

Armed robbery (1 yr. to 20 yrs.) 1 yr. to 3 yrs. minimum and maximum sentence, 8 mos. to 2.1 yrs. actual term served, 1.03 yrs. average.

"Failings of the present criminal justice system are outlined by Gov. Walker as follows:

"Dangerous criminals and repeaters of the same offense frequently receive little time behind bars."

"Indeterminate sentencing ignores the concept that an adult citizen is responsible for his or her actions, should be held accountable for those actions, and should be punished specifically for a specific crime."

"The wide latitude of sentences in the criminal code, whereby a person convicted of armed robbery can receive a 4-to-10-year sentence while a person convicted of identical circumstances can receive 10-to-99 years."

"A convicted criminal doesn't know how long his sentence will actually turn out to be."

"Parole affords no real guarantees to the public.

"A neat, presentable but unworkable system may obtain a parole while a nervous but rehabilitated prisoner may be funded down, repeatedly on parole, and may remain in prison for years."

"It's too uncertain. Rapists, robbers, murderers, and other serious offenders are returned to the community early on the theory they have been rehabilitated when in fact approval for parole might have been based on a good selling job by a skilled actor before the Parole Board and others who judge his conduct."

"It's unfair. Actual time served by the 100 named robbery offenders surveyed ranged from nine months to 13 years and six months."

Black offenders as a group have had a more difficult time winning approval for parole than white offenders as a group. During the first six months of 1972, 15.3 per cent of white offenders eligible for parole were paroled while 12.1 per cent of eligible black offenders were paroled.

The imbalance, whether coincidental or not, is aggravated by the fact that the prison population was 67 per cent black during that period.

"The parole agent with a caseload of 50 to 100 offenders scattered across a large geographic area cannot prevent — and has not prevented — repeated crime," the governor asserts.

"And the parole agent's role is a contradictory one. To the parolee, the supervisor threatens return to prison, and yet he is supposed to counsel the offender to help him readjust to society."

The ILEEC proposal being referred to a legislative commission discards indefinite sentences and junks the parole system as a sincere try that has failed."

The heart of the new approach would be sentence reduction procedures, applied to fixed sentences.

Terms would be reduced one day for every day of "good time" inside prison. Infractions would be defined, and each prisoner made responsible for his own conduct to detract from "good time."

Post-release services, such as assistance in obtaining employment, counseling and advising on educational and job training opportunities, would be provided by a state-funded agency. It would take over non-police functions now handled by parole officers.

Although the general tone of the proposal is "get tough" approach, there would be new alternatives to sentencing. Examples are: probation, restitution to victims, and periodic sentencing (such as weekends in a county jail).

In addition to the hope of less crime in Illinois communities, the proposal has as an objective "ending the chaotic picture that contributes significantly to prison unrest."

It is asserted that "imposes jail on behavior has some remote relationship to when they will leave. But subjective evaluations by judges, jury members and laymen on whether a convict is rehabilitated are the criteria by which they are judged, not their behavior itself."

The plan would reorganize the Department of Corrections into three bureaus: Bureau of Prisons, Bureau of Offender Supervision and Bureau of Youth Services.

The Bureau of Prisons would include the present penitentiary system and the local jail in cooperation unit.

The Bureau of Offender Supervision would include probation, supervision of prisoners, parole, and other programs, restitution programs and pre-trial diversion programs.

Whether it would be made for a new system of post-release supervision to assist in the transition back into society.

The Bureau of Youth Services would include training schools, youth probation and other youth services.

Other elements of the sweeping reorganization would be a voluntary rehabilitation program, a vocational training program, in which inmates would buy such services with voucher credits.

Under the new system, a Sentencing Equalization Court, on which state appellate judges would sit for two-year periods, "helps to bring about a dramatic shift in state policies in the field of crime and punishment should or will be adopted is not yet clear."

A trend of ours is that "corrections issues" says that if parole and probation officers were not so overworked — if much additional money was spent to enable them to do the best they are capable of performing — vast amounts could be saved in dollars and wasted lives.

Not nearly as many prisons would be needed if society gave its wholehearted backing to counseling and rehabilitation, the friend says.

He urges providing enough parole officers to spend a lot of time with parolees, "leading them by the hand" to gainful employment, effective interaction with fellow citizens and acceptance of a new set of values.

On the other hand, a question that arises is whether society can wait for such a Utopia or whether it should more efficiently defend itself now.

And there is also the fact that some prisoners unquestionably would harm other people if released and, therefore, do not deserve the chance to leave confinement.

Some barbaric countries that executed petty criminals used to boast that, whether or not this served as a deterrent, it did sharply reduce the number of criminals.

America has gone so far in the other direction that the courts have prevented the death penalty even for the most heinous crimes imaginable.

In the absence of capital punishment, the public may well be ready to turn to a "throw away the prison keys" attitude, knowing that at least some of these behind bars could never be fully trusted again, and not knowing how to sort them out from the potentially trustworthy.

We still have some sorting out to do in our own reaction to the governor's bold new policy, but we would like to see some steps taken toward placing a higher value on human life.

Since each of us has only one life, it is essential that those who indulge in cutting short other people's lives not be given merely token reprisals, or no punishment at all.

The alternative to effective law enforcement, prosecution and sentencing is not attractive — "Jungle law" or "frontier justice" in which there is reliance on survival of the fittest.

Our system surely is failing if citizens are tempted to arm themselves, aware that it is far smarter to "shoot first and ask questions later" and, above all, to be the survivor of any dispute.

Something new, whether the governor's or some other plan, perhaps ought to be tried.

The FORUM Governor's offices solving problems.

To the Editor:

In regard to the Governor's Action Offices, I would like to clear the air to the valid and necessary reason for having these offices, set up throughout the Governor's Action Offices—the Shirley Zaks or the governor we have today?

On Jan. 18, disaster struck my family. Our home was destroyed by fire.

In trying to reconstruct our lives back to as near normal as possible, I was having some problems with one of the state departments, one belonging to necessary to contact one of the Governor's Action Offices, the one in Granite City.

I couldn't possibly convey to you what a feeling you have when you, or I, anyone can pick up a phone and hear a nice, friendly voice belonging to Shirley Zaks and ready to help.

When they said action offices, they meant it. They explained my problem to Shirley, she said she would get back with me. In ten minutes, she returned the call.

'Sweetheart deal' with governor?

To the Editor:

The Illinois State Employees Association last week filed a mandamus action against the Walker administration, demanding full payment of the $200 due state employees.

Governor Dan Walker used his amendatory veto to slice $50 off the $100 a month pay increase granted by the legislature, to be effective on Sept. 1, 1974.

The legislature subsequently overrode the governor's veto and the $100 increase was paid to the payroll clerks not to pay the additional $50 a month.

The governor's decision not to pay the additional $50 a month was not announced publicly.

ISEA checked almost daily with the governor's office, the Bureau of the Budget, the Finance Department and the Controller's Office, and none could tell us if there would be any delay in the payment of the additional $50.

Yet, while a tight lid of secrecy was maintained on this important piece of information—the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees announced that it was filing suit to make the governor fork out the back pay.

How did AFSCME know the governor didn't intend to pay? AFSCME news item reveals why.

In a publication titled, with my problem solved and even followed up on it to make sure everything was handled properly.

Where would the people of Illinois go if we did not have the Governor's Action Offices—the Shirley Zaks or the governor we have today?

It is a good idea to be safe in saying that we would be back to the old politics and the political bosses that existed before Dan Walker took that long, famous walk across Illinois.

We have a people's governor. Let's keep these action offices open. Let's keep the Shirley Zaks.

I want you to know that you do have a direct line to the governor through these action offices.

To my knowledge, this is the first time that the people of Illinois have been able to do this.

Believe me, help is waiting there for you, all of you.

"AFSCME on the move," AFSCME coordinator Dick Wilson states, "We have had discussions with the administration and they have indicated that a lawsuit would be a constructive way of determining whether retroactive pay can be made under the Finance Act."

Isn't it convenient that AFSCME first talked with the administration as to whether a lawsuit should be filed?

ISEA has watched these events carefully, and what we see is nothing but a "sweetheart deal" between AFSCME and Gov. Walker.

It's a deal designed to make both sides look good, and it was arranged and orchestrated behind the scenes to a tune that no state employee would like to hear.

Walker knew that if he didn't pay the money, employee organizations, and especially ISEA, would take him to court.

Walker doesn't want to pay the money. He doesn't want to pay the full amount of additional pay—some $18,000,000—so he agreed in advance with AFSCME that ISEA would file a lawsuit to claim the money.

AFSCME lawyers know full well that their lawsuit will cost them only $50 of back pay. The "deal" is simple.

The governor agrees to pay $50 (about $4,000,000) and thereby saves himself a cool $12,000,000.

All you have to do is pick up your phone and explain your problem and you will get action. Other states should view some of Gov. Walker's programs; they may be useful in their states.

I can see only one other place that Gov. Walker could serve in a wider capacity and that would be Washington, D. C. It would be a loss for Illinois, but what a gain it would be for the nation.

So, the next time some newspaper editor or some legislator jumps up and wants to start on Gov. Walker's case, stop and look and take a good hard look at the improvements, the action offices and the programs that Governor Dan Walker has implemented for Illinois.

believe the editors would lay their pens down and the lawmakers would start working with the "people's governor."

H.E. "PAUL" HALLLEY

comes out looking like the shining knight because they went to court, they got tremendous publicity and—for all state employees know—they did their very best to get the money.

That's the trouble when a labor organization becomes a house union," as AFSCME has. They have made a deal with the administration so that both parties look good—and the state employees, whose labor organization is committed to fight for—suffer a substantial loss.

ISEA has watched these shenanigans for several weeks. Our attorneys have studied the lawsuit filed by AFSCME and find that it is an extremely poor action, ideally suited to accommodate both parties.

ISEA does not intend to allow the Walker administration to continue its disgraceful under-the-table deals with labor organizations so that state employees consistently come up on the short end.

We want our members—and all state employees—to get the state of Illinois out of the mess intended by the legislature.

If Gov. Walker wants to save money, let him get rid of the state of patronage and let the state employees be assigned to the state of merit.

Public Aid, Mental Health and others while secretly working on the governor's staff.

Donald Young is promoted

John H. Obermann, president of Mercantile Commerce Trust Co., St. Louis, has announced the election of Donald D. Young, of Granite City as assistant vice-president, chief operating officer, of the bank's facility at Oakland and Mackland avenues, St. Louis.

Young started his banking career in November 1963 with the Security Trust Co., as a loan interviewer. In July 1965, Mercantile Trust Co. bought out Security Trust Co. and he was moved to the personal loan division of that bank.

In December 1967, Young was promoted to assistant cashier and named manager of the Plaza Loan & Safe Deposit Corp. which was located in Mercantile Trust's building.

In June 1970 he was transferred to Mercantile Commerce Trust Co. and named assistant cashier-assistant manager of the personal loan department where he served until January 1973. He was then appointed assistant cashier-assistant manager of the facility at Oakland and Mackland avenues.

Young and his wife, Betty, have three children, Stephen Underkofler, Kathleen, and David. They reside at 2913 Fortune Drive.

Arvil Taylor promoted to captain's rank

Arvil V. Taylor Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvil V. Taylor Sr. of Rural Route Two, Granite City, has been promoted to captain in the U.S. Air Force.

Captain Taylor, a B-52 Stratofortress pilot, is assigned at Dyess AFB, Tex., with a unit of the Strategic Air Command. The captain, a 1966 graduate of Granite City High School, received his B.A. degree from Southern Illinois University where he was commissioned in 1970 through the Reserve Officer Training Corps program.

Captain Taylor's wife, Sharon, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Koch, 1609 Pontoon Road.

Recruit graduates

Navy Seaman Recruit Mary E. Macko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Macko, 1013 Washington Ave., Madison, has graduated from recruit training for women at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla. The training included instruction in seamanship, military regulations, fire fighting, close order drill, first aid and Navy history.

Illinois to get $249 million for sewage treatment plants

The Midwest Regional Office of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency has announced in Chicago that almost $1.09 billion has been allotted to it for the construction of municipal wastewater treatment facilities in EPA's six-state Midwest Region.

"This is over one-fourth of the entire $4 billion released recently by the White House for the nation to construct sewage treatment facilities," said EPA's Midwest Regional Administrator Francis T. Mayo.

Mayo said the states in his region will receive the following allocations: Illinois, $249,956,000; Indiana, $134,648,000; Michigan, $312,256,000; Minnesota, $81,278,000; Ohio, $230,948,000; and Wisconsin, $89,660,000. The expenditure of $4 billion is expected to result in the creation of over 80,000 on site jobs when the funds are completely used. In addition, approximately the same number of jobs would be created by off-site employment.

A total of $9 billion has been allotted nationwide over the past three fiscal years. The recent White House action brought the total to $13 billion. "During this period, the Midwest region has received some $3.3 billion, or about one-fourth of the total $13 billion," Mayo noted.

He said the money will be divided among the states under the same formula used in the allocation of funds in fiscal years 1973 and 1974. Under this formula, a state's share of the federal allocation was based on a cost study developed by the states and EPA. An individual share is determined by the ratio of the state's costs to the total costs of all the states.

When Congress passed the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972, it allotted a total of $18 billion dollars for construction of sewage treatment facilities during the fiscal years 1973-75.

However, only $9 billion was released by the White House for this purpose during these fiscal years. The $4 billion is part of this $18 billion authorized by Congress. The White House's decision on the disposition of the remaining $5 billion authorization will be made later, Mayo said.

The disposition of these funds remains the subject of pending litigation and a decision by the U. S. Supreme Court is expected in the near future.

Nursing seminar at SIUE

The School of Nursing at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will hold a seminar on rehabilitation techniques Tuesday and Wednesday and March 6-7.

The seminar has been split into two time blocks for the convenience of nurses who cannot remain away from their duties for longer periods of time.

The Tuesday session will be held on the university campus in the Mississippi room of the University Center. On Wednesday nurses will meet at the Madison County Nursing Home in Edwardsville. The sessions on March 6 and 7 will be held on the university campus in the Missouri room of the University Center. All four sessions will meet from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. except the final day, which will end at noon.

The purpose of the seminar is to upgrade care in nursing homes, according to the Ingversen, director of continuing education in the SIUE School of Nursing. Instructors for the sessions will include staff members of the State of Illinois Rehabilitation Education Service, Department of Mental Health and Department of Public Health.

Topics of the seminar will include reorientation, reality orientation, bed and chair positioning, and transfer techniques. Registration for the day seminar is $6. Participants will be expected to attend all four sessions.
